

ABSTRACT

A calendar including a daily designation table and a space for designating the distributor of the calendar as well as a space for the advertisement of the sponsor, wherein: the designations on the part of the day such as "morning", "midday", and "evening" for which the medicine is to be taken are provided in each date section of the daily designation table, and wherein a medicine pouch is able to attach removably on one of the designations on the part of the day.